

JOB ID: 10-003

LOCATION: JACKSONVILLE, FL

INSTRUCTIONAL SYSTEMS DESIGNER

POSITION SUMMARY:

Successful candidate will perform training-needs analyses and design interactive multimedia instruction (IMI) for web-based delivery.

POSITION RESPONSIBILITIES:

- Perform training-needs analyses.
- Design interactive multimedia instruction (IMI) for web-based delivery.
- Work with customer to define training needs, develop curricula, create learning objectives, and scope projects.
- Write storyboards for training modules.
- Work with a team of web programmers and graphic artists to produce effective and engaging web-based training.

ESSENTIAL SKILLS AND EXPERIENCE:

- B.A. or higher in instructional design, or five years experience in designing training for web-based delivery.
- Minimum Required Experience: 3 years experience designing web-based training
- Write learning objectives, create storyboards and course outlines, develop content working with SMEs, manage client expectations, and design learner assessments.
- Strong background in distance learning and a solid understanding of multimedia technologies and software.
- Must be self-motivated.
- Must have strong communication skills, be a team player, and be able to operate under tight project deadlines.
- Full life cycle (ADDIE) design experience.
- Must be able to obtain a DoD security clearance.

PREFERRED SKILLS AND EXPERIENCE:

- Strong project management experience is desirable.
- Prior service in the United States Marine Corps is desirable.
- Trained in DoD information security processes and practices.